This project consists of 77 units of quality mixed-income multifamily rental and Oxford neighborhoods. The project will include the adaptive reuse of a hi and the urban infill of newly constructed housing on vacant lots.	storic Coca-Cola bottling plant

In order to be considered an Economic Revitalization Area (ERA), the area must be within the corporate limits of the City of Fort Wayne and must have become undesirable for, or impossible of, normal development and occupancy because of a lack of development, cessation of growth, deterioration of improvements or character of occupancy, age, obsolescence, substandard buildings, or other factors which have impaired values or prevent a normal development of property or use of property. It also includes any area where a facility or group of facilities that are technologically, economically, or energy obsolete is located and where the obsolescence may lead to a decline in employment and tax revenues.

How does the property for which you are requesting designation meet the above definition of an ERA?

The Pontiac Square Phase I Project is located along the East Pontiac Street corridor near Anthony Boulevard, which is roughly 2 miles to the southeast of downtown Ft. Wayne. A vital east-west corridor, the Pontiac Street corridor has suffered from significant disinvestment and loss of original housing stock for the past 30 years. This has resulted in large numbers of vacant parcels, thereby discouraging further private investment and preventing individuals and families from moving to this neighborhood.

This project also includes the redevelopment of an old Coca-Cola bottling plant that in its current use is an eyesore to the neighborhood. The transformation of the Coca-Cola building coupled with the quality new construction units will catalyze the market, demonstrating to the broader community that something new and exciting is happening here.

Pontiac Square Phase I – A Catalyst for Neighborhood Revitalization Renaissance Pointe / Oxford neighborhoods – Fort Wayne, Indiana

About the Project

The Community Builders, Inc ("TCB") seeks support from the Indiana Housing and Community Development Authority for a reservation of $1,400,000 in Low Income Housing Tax Credits, plus a loan of $500,000 from the Indiana Development Fund to finance the Pontiac Square Phase I Project (the "Project"). This Project consists of 77 units of quality mixed-income, multifamily rental housing in the Renaissance Pointe and Oxford neighborhoods in Fort Wayne, Indiana. The Project will include the adaptive reuse of a historic Coca-Cola bottling plant building and the urban infill of newly constructed multifamily housing on vacant lots.

The Project is located along the East Pontiac Street corridor near Anthony Boulevard, which is roughly 2 miles to the southeast of downtown Ft. Wayne. A vital east-west connector, the Pontiac Street corridor has suffered from significant disinvestment and loss of original housing stock over the last 30 years. The loss of significant numbers of housing units and large numbers of vacant parcels in the area discourages private investment and is unattractive to renters and homeowners that have other options in the marketplace. Pontiac Street is one of the crucial 'front doors' to the Renaissance Pointe and Oxford neighborhoods. Therefore, the Pontiac Square Project will fill in many of the 'missing teeth' along the Pontiac Corridor and demonstrate to the broader market that something new and exciting is happening here.

Pontiac Square is an ambitious development initiative designed to achieve multiple physical and economic objectives. The Project will transform the Coca-Cola bottling plant from an eyesore to beautiful and spacious loft apartments. Pontiac Square will also catalyze the market by introducing a sympathetically designed product that complements and supports other ongoing initiatives in the area (including the IHCDA-funded Ideal Homes lease-purchase development further west and the recent Phoenix Place market-rate development to the north). The Project is designed to demonstrate that the local real estate market of Renaissance Pointe / Oxford area continues to strengthen, and remains a strong focus for ongoing neighborhood revitalization investment by the public and private sectors. The redevelopment of the Coca-Cola bottling plant will capture the attention of the 13,000+ cars per day that drive through the intersection of Pontiac and Anthony, sparking interest and curiosity in those who have other choices in the market and reinforcing the decision of homeowners living near the development to remain invested in their properties.

Some of the unique features of this project include:

A True Private – Public Partnership: Since the project's conception, TCB has worked closely with the City of Fort Wayne to bring this project to fruition. TCB considers the City a true partner, providing support in the form of zoning approval, tax abatement, significant resource commitment, and a favorable Rental Housing Tax Credit application score. TCB has entered into a Memorandum of Understanding with the City of Fort Wayne outlining respective roles and responsibilities for the development of the project.

Targeted Location: Over the last 5 years, the City of Fort Wayne has targeted the Southeast neighborhoods for planning efforts and considerable public resources aimed at redevelopment and revitalization. The City commissioned the Southeast Area Development Strategy as a 10-year vision for the future of the Southeast area of Fort Wayne. The City also secured a Neighborhood Revitalization Strategy Area grant from HUD for the Hanna-Creighton neighborhood (now rebranded as Renaissance Pointe). The Pontiac Square Project is located in the heart of the Southeast area, less than 2 miles from downtown Fort Wayne. The neighborhood currently boasts new lease purchase rental housing as well as other homeownership opportunities. Over the last couple of years, the YMCA, Allen County Public Library and the Urban League have all built new state-of-the-art facilities within a mile of the site.

Adaptive Reuse of Industrial Site: The Project will construct 31 new units within the Coca-Cola bottling plant. This building is currently being used to manufacture and paint steel augers. The building is in operation during work hours, but otherwise is fenced off from the neighborhood by barbed wire fence. The current use of the site does not align with the existing neighborhood fabric, which consists of two-story single-family homes and small locally owned businesses. The Pontiac Square Phase I Project will transform this eyesore into a beautiful historically preserved residential building that will attract new and positive energy to the neighborhood, and integrate it into the surrounding residential community. The project will also address significant environmental contamination at the bottling plant and adjacent fueling station site — the site qualifies as a brownfield under City and State guidelines, and TCB will remediate the site to residential standards.

Solution to Vacant & Abandoned Properties: The Pontiac Square Phase I Project will also construct new multifamily residences and townhomes on vacant lots contiguous to the Coca-Cola bottling plant. These new buildings, totaling 46 units, are designed with an eye toward the existing architectural context (but with a modern flair) that respects and aligns with the existing neighborhood fabric.

A Plan for Future Development: The Pontiac Square Phase I Project is just one of three phases included in the development scheme for this area, bringing roughly $50 million of public and private investment to the area over the next 5 – 7 years. Multiple phases of development will allow TCB to strategically leverage resources into this neighborhood. A long-term investment strategy is critical to genuine transformation of this neighborhood.

Promoting Mixed-Income Neighborhoods: The Pontiac Square Phase I Project will be rented to tenants with a mix of income levels (40%, 50% and 60% of area median income), while a portion of units will be reserved as unrestricted or market rate. Some of the Pontiac Square residents will be considered low-income, but the vast majority of the tenants will be working class individuals and families.

Community Engagement Process: The Community Builders have engaged the members and organizations of the Oxford and Renaissance Pointe neighborhoods in the planning and conception of the Pontiac Square Phase I. Their engagement has been accomplished through various community outreach meetings and discussions where TCB has presented the project, while at the same time, requesting the support and feedback of neighborhood residents. Additionally, TCB organized a site visit for the City of Fort Wayne and residents of the neighborhood to tour Park DuValle and Liberty Green, two of TCB's signature neighborhood revitalization projects totalling more than 1,000 units in Louisville, Kentucky. Finally, the City of Fort Wayne has engaged residents and community stakeholders of the Oxford and Renaissance Pointe neighborhoods over the last 10 years to design and develop the Hanna-Creighton Plan for Neighborhood Revitalization Strategy, as well as the Southeast Area Development Strategy.

High Quality & Uniquely Designed: Pontiac Square Phase I has been uniquely designed to attract positive attention and excitement to this neighborhood, so as to display that public investment can transform a neighborhood. This starts with the adaptive reuse and historic preservation of the bottling plant. The Coca-Cola building will boast beautifully designed loft units that will attract a diverse population to the neighborhood both in residents and passersby. Additionally, the loft units may also be attractive to existing neighborhood residents who would like a modern option for housing. On the same parcel as the Coca-Cola bottling plant building, TCB has designed a 10-unit new multifamily building on the site of a former fuel station adjacent to the bottling plant site designed to complement the Coca-Cola building with contemporary architecture and sympathetic materials.

The remaining 11 buildings will be new construction townhomes and duplexes that are designed more traditionally to blend with the existing architecture of the neighborhood. These buildings will be attractive stick-framed two-story units with front or rear porches and high-quality cladding materials.

Bringing Jobs and Economic Investment to Fort Wayne: TCB is committed to developing up to three phases that will invest up to $50 million in private and public funds directly into the neighborhood. Over the course of the anticipated 5-7 year development cycle, TCB anticipates that up to 250-300 construction jobs will be created (of which at least 100 will be created in the current Phase I), with a target of providing a significant number of those jobs to neighborhood and Fort Wayne residents, through local hiring programs and a focus on Minority- and Women-Owned contractors. TCB has included meaningful levels of Minority- and Women-owned businesses on its design team, including nationally regarded master planner/architect David Lee of Stull and Lee Architects, and locally-based DLZ, an engineering and survey firm, and Crandall Engineering.

About The Community Builders, Inc.

The Community Builders is one of the nation's most accomplished developers of affordable, mixed-income housing, and is a leader in comprehensive neighborhood revitalization. Since its founding in 1964, TCB has developed more than 25,000 units of mixed-income, special needs, and senior housing, and currently manages a portfolio consisting of 102 residential developments housing more than 16,000 residents. TCB was one of only four non-profit recipients nationwide of federal Neighborhood Stabilization Program 2 funding, and is using this funding to carry out a multi-state, multi-family neighborhood stabilization program in neighborhoods experiencing abandonment and foreclosure – including the current project in Fort Wayne. TCB also has a strong track record of providing economic opportunities to neighborhoods through construction contracting and hiring.
